BAN THE IMPORT OF FUR

We The undersigned call upon the Government to ban the import of all animal fur to the UK. Animals bred for fur abroad are kept in cramped, unacceptable conditions, which lead to severe stress, cannibalism and unnecessary suffering. They are killed with exhaust fumes, cervical dislocation, or anal electrocution. Other animals are caught in the wild in traps which have long been banned in this country due to the suffering that they inflict. Species killed for fur include mink, rabbits, chinchillas, lynx, foxes, hamsters, polar bears and even cats and dogs. Although no cat or dog fur has yet been found in the UK, it is widely on sale in the EU, and we urge this pre-emptive action. By banning all fur imports we can guarantee the end of great amounts of suffering, as well as being certain that cat and dog fur is not on sale in this country. The farming of fur in this country has already been banned as a result of public pressure, and so we now urge the Government to continue along this positive route, and ban all fur imports.
